Read the following passage carefully then answer questions from 1 to 10 below:

1. There are many positive effects of laughter. Laughing is fun. Laughing helps us relax in stressful situations. Laughter also helps people forget about their pain and facilitates learning. In dead, one study found out that students who laugh more remember more things and complete their homework more quickly. With these facts in mind, there are two areas where we should try to help people laugh more: hospitals and schools.

2. Hospitals, of course, have many people who are in pain. For serious pain, doctors prescribe patients drugs, but laughter could help reduce the need to take too many pills. How? One idea is for hospitals to make sure that each room has a television or a laptop that patients can watch funny videos. Another idea is for hospitals is to give patients fun games to play with each other. This is probably better than funny videos because people the most when they're around other people. Finally, hospitals can tell visitors how helpful laughter is. They should try to make the patients they're visiting laugh.

3. Schools are another great place to use laughter. Professors and teachers usually work hard to create great lessons, but teachers rarely try hard enough to make their students laugh. One accounting professor, for example, knew that his lessons were boring, so he told the students a joke every five or ten minutes. The jokes weren't really funny, but his students still laughed. They also remembered the lessons more. Simple ideas like this can make a big difference.

Question 1: the writer that telling students jokes is a……

- funny idea
- boring idea
- great idea
- simple idea

Question 2: people laugh the most when they're……

- in stressful situations
- watching funny videos
- around other people
- not in pain or at school

Question 3: laughter helps people……their pain.

- remember
- explain
- forget about
- learn about

Question 4: Why does the writer think professors and teachers should try to make students laugh?

- Students will remember more from the lessons.
- Students never complete their homework quickly.
- Professors rarely make great efforts.
- Classes are usually boring.

Question 5: What does the word "facilitates" in paragraph 1 mean?

- helps
- remembers

Question 6: What does the word "prescribe" in paragraph 2 mean?

- take
- give
- watch
- use

Question 7: What does the underlined word "they" in paragraph 2 refer to?

- videos
- visitors
- hospitals
- patients

Question 8: What does the underlined word "they" in paragraph 3 refer to?

- The professors
- The students
- The jokes
- The lessons

Question 9: What is the best title for the passage?

- Patients and laughter.
- Students and laughter.
- The main reasons of laughter.
- Two places that need more laughter.

1- I ……to a dentist. I have a lot of pain in my teeth.

- Should to go
- Should going
- Should to going
- Should go

2- His hard work was…….. .It was amazing how much we all accomplished after he was hired.

- Worrying
- Troubled
- Apologetic
- contagious

3- He has ……..reading. It takes him along time to read just a few words.

- Dishonesty
- Difficulty
- Confidence
- combination